Theme: Nowhere to Wear It

Ever bought too many clothes at a thrift store and never got around to wearing them? Well, students at NUS College put on their annual Start-of-Semester Dinner (SOSD) with the theme “Nowhere-to-wear-it Party”. I was tipped off about this event by a friend of mine, and it sounded too interesting not to report on it.

Students came down dressed in all kinds of outrageous outfits, descending on the dining halls for their dinner. As they feasted on their delectable meals, I quietly walked around, observing their outfits and taking down notes. I saw an alien costume, another dressed as a football, I think I saw a group dressed in PPE, and I think I might have seen a Gojo Satoru as well.

SURPRISE!

After the dinner was a showcase put on by the students, who cheered loudly as their peers danced and sang to banger after banger. I must say, these performers have had one of the best fashion styles I've seen in recent memory, and their outfits really added to their performances.

Overall, I must say that I was not disappointed. Who knew we could put on such an amazing party? Certainly will cover this again when the opportunity arises!

6 golds, 7 medals
in Swimming? An NUSC vs NUSC
football final?

Through thick and thin, NUSC athletes have managed to once again achieve an overall 1st in total number of medals among the 6 RCs, as well as improved NUSC's overall rank by number of gold medals from 3rd to 2nd!

Victory tastes sweet, but we celebrate not just the wins, but also the teamwork, friendships, hard work, and community building that have enabled our collective successes. From extending a welcoming hand to new players to late night trainings to building connections across RCs and demonstrating sportsmanship and fellowship, NUSC has brought out the true mission of ICG — to build a community together through sports.

As the Convening RC, the NUSC Sports Directorate executed the very first ICG Welfare Day, as well as introduced 2 new sports, Overcooked and Pickleball, bringing the total number of ICG sports to a whopping 29!

To all captains, athletes, supporters, and the planning team behind ICG, thank you for your hard work, and for showing up when it mattered. We hope that Team NUSC will continue to have fun and improve in their various sports for future IFGs and ICGs!

Ollie's Birthday

Dear diary,

Today was my otter friend Ollie's FIRST birthday! The party was rad: a fitting celebration for our beloved otter mascot and bestie. I saw so many excited and friendly NUSC humans there. I had the most fun day ever! Let me tell you all about it.

I first went around playing all the exciting games that Ollie's friends had set up for us party-goers, which was probably the best part of the event.

I tried every single one! I went fishing with Lucky Catch, gambled on my skills with Coin Toss, lived my "The Devil Wears Prada" dream at Fashion Runway, and wrote my friend a heartfelt birthday wish at the Wishing Wall. Then I put my detective skills to the test in the Treasure Hunt.

And then there was this super cool Wheel of Fortune that we could spin with tickets won from the games. The prizes? Ollie-themed merch!! Between Ollie-themed floormats, mugs, and cardholders, my fortune landed me a mug. Now I can sip coffee with my friend every day! ;)

Happy Birthday!

But wait! My favourite element HAD to be the photobooth! Here, all the party-goers could get a cute picture posing with the birthday otter, with marine decor in the backdrop. I'm getting mine framed!

*I almost forgot – the food was definitely the star of the party (other than Ollie, of course). In addition to a delectable chocolate cake, Ollie's delicious spread consisted of bubbly mocktails, nuggets, and my favourite fish snacks. Yum! I change my mind. THIS was the best thing at the party.*

Oh, this party was super fun! I can't decide what my favourite thing is. It was all amazing! I can't wait for "anotter" party next year!

XOXO, Fishelle the Otter

6 Houses

7 Sports

1 Champion

This semester, the 6 houses of NUSC battled against each other in a fierce war for the right to be called champion.

Our brave warriors had to dodge, kick, throw, and hit everything thrown their way on their quest for glory. Some say there might even have been a kitchen or two burnt down along the way.

After two grueling weeks of battle, one house emerged victorious from the quagmire — for the second year in a row, were bestowed the title of ICG Champion. Perhaps, we may be looking at the start of a new dynasty destined to rule NUSC for years to come.

Just like that, a whole semester has passed by in the blink of an eye and with it, a whole suite of:

Wednesdays @ NUSC

Hearts & Horizons

CAD 10J Party

Diversity Fair

Cinna Farewell

Throughout the semester, we've had a total of 10 Wednesdays @ NUSC events, each one bringing as much fun and joy as the last!

Who could forget the countless carnivals and fairs held throughout the semester each Wednesday! Organised by various NUSC groups such as the Welfare Directorate and the RAs, we ate delicious "Tornado Potato" in the Self Care-nival and played Suite Scuffle during the RAs' Winner's Night.

The Gaza Fundraiser.

an initiative 3 years in the running, raised a whopping $6320 for continued efforts in Gaza relief.

The Collective Faire, a yearly affair, brought students and faculty together, hosting booths that showcased everything from snacks and tea, to mindbreaking puzzles, “six-sevens” in all languages and even an entire mini ren faire setup in the Candletown Collective.

Then came Decibel, the yearly concert organised by our very own Livecore, bringing together the most talented musicians of NUSC in a night of banger music so loud it could have generated a “noise complaint”, as the crowd chanted along to hits such as “Angel with a Shotgun” and “American Idiot”.

We hope you all have enjoyed the suite of Wednesdays @ NUSC this time and we can’t wait to see everyone again next AY for more fun!

Cozy After Hours Themed Party

EOSD

And with that, the Academic Year comes to an end! And what better way to end off a doozy of a semester than with an equally unforgettable EOSD? In the peak of submissions and finals- grinding season, the Cozy After Hours themed party promised a night of leisure, relaxation and unwinding – and it delivered exactly that.

The highlight of the night has got to be kicking back and relaxing on beanbags in the MPH, while being serenaded and entertained by the amazingly talented people of NUSC.

Cozy After Hours Themed Party

Under the soft glow of the overhead roving lights and multicoloured banners that stretched across the hall above us, we sat knee-to-knee with friends, sang our hearts out to the theme song of “小幸运 (A Little Happiness)” with arms over each other’s shoulders and screamed in each others’ ears as the dance group “Jennie” took our breaths away with their cover of “Like Jennie”.

We showed up to the party clad in fuzzy pyjamas and not forgetting, the equally comfortable and very Singaporean combination of Dri-fit shirts and FBT shorts. This Cozy After Hours theme was a stark contrast to the Great Gatsby theme for Semester 1’s EOSD which promised a night of style befitting high society, but left us with an experience equally as memorable and precious.

We hope your summer break also includes spending time cozying up and doing the things that fill your bucket! Rest well and see you next AY!
